DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear how the arm is able to be "moving" if it is fixed in the position; there are not two positions described which it is moving between.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-3, 6-8, 10, 12, and 18-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent No. 921,900 to Shuster (Shuster).

With regard to claim 1, Shuster discloses an object holder comprising a support (5); fixing means (35) enabling the support to be carried by a user; an arm (17) mounted on the support so as to be mobile between multiple positions and having receiving means (13) for part of an object able to be stored in any position; and means (14, 16) for locking the object carried by the arm.

With regard to claim 2, the arm (17) is mounted pivotably (via ball joint 24).

With regard to claim 3, the arm (17) is mounted slideably (via track 11).

With regard to claim 6, the locking and holding means (14, 16) comprises means (spring steel, page 1 lines 63-65) for elastic coupling of the object to the support (via the arm).

With regard to claim 7, the locking means comprises at least one fork (14, 14) which is elastic (spring steel, page 1 lines 63-65).

With regard to claim 8, the receiving means (13) comprises a passage (Figs. 1, 2).

With regard to claim 10, the receiving means comprises means (16) for elastic locking.

With regard to claim 12, the fixing means (25) comprise means (42, 31) for fixing on a backpack.

With regard to claims 18-19, the locking means (14, 16) comprise means (14, 14, Fig. 3) for elastic (spring steel) coupling of the object to the support.

5. Claims 1-3, 5, 9, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent No. 5,887,771 to Perry (Perry).

With regard to claim 1, Perry discloses a support (20), fixing means (28), an arm (23) mounted on the support so as to be mobile between positions (pivoting and sliding, col. 5, lines 8-10), having receiving means (26) allowing the object to be carried in any of the positions, and means (clip 170) for holding said arm in the storage position.

With regard to claim 2, the arm (23) is mounted pivotably (via 160).

With regard to claim 3, the arm (23) is mounted slideably (via 150).

With regard to claim 5, the locking and holding means couple the arm to the support.

With regard to claim 9, the receiving means (26) comprises a platform (52).

With regard to claim 11, the arm (23) is articulated (Fig. 10) on the support (20) on a vertical rod (168); the arm extends rearward of the user to the degree claimed (see 35 USC 112 rejection above).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 4, 13-17, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Perry in view of US Patent No. 4,449,750 to Pultman (Pultman).

With regard to claims 4 and 13-17, Perry discloses substantially the invention, wherein the arm (23) couples (via clip 170) to the support (166 on 20), but is silent as to whether the clips allow for elastic coupling.

Pultman discloses a similar carrier (32) mounted to a similar support (22) by means of elastic coupling (spring clips 25, 25'). Complementary parts (arms of each clip, as in Fig. 1) couple together elastically.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided the clips of Perry with the resilient clips of Pultman to provide for a resilient, easily removable connection between a carrier and support.

With regard to claim 20, the objects are elastically coupled to the support (via spring-loaded arms 46 with 52).

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
